Drawing on his work as one of the leading experts on the Shroud of Turin as well as research by scientists from NASA and Los Alamos, he shows how the image on the Shroud could only have been produced by a flash of light as intense as a nuclear explosion--a burst of light that occurred after the body was in the tomb. Sharing medical evidence of consciousness in people declared clinically dead, the author shows how the light of consciousness evidenced by the Shroud is also a consistent feature of most near-death experiences...”

The presented hypothesis and experiments were performed by the Russian Institute of Forensics in early 2000s and persuasively indicate that this shrine is indeed the very linen, in which the breathless body of a severely tortured and crucified man was wrapped in at the 1st century A.D. somewhere in the Middle East...” [Note: This documentary was made and originally screened in Russia in 2007.
