In this video, we present a concise forensic overview of the Shroud of Turin—one of the most studied and controversial artifacts in the world. This is not speculation or opinion, but a structured summary of the scientific, medical, and historical evidence, based on the book behind this project. The Shroud is a linen cloth bearing the faint image of a crucified man, long believed by many to be Jesus of Nazareth. Its image behaves like a photographic negative, a property first discovered in 1898, and continues to puzzle researchers today. Across decades, scientists—including the Shroud of Turin Research Project—have examined the cloth using chemistry, microscopy, and imaging analysis. Yet, despite extensive testing, the mechanism behind the image formation remains unresolved and widely debated. At the same time, radiocarbon dating placed the cloth in the medieval period (1260–1390), a conclusion accepted by many experts—but still questioned by others due to possible contamination or sampling issues. This video brings together these findings in a clear, structured way—allowing you to examine the evidence for yourself. 📖 About the Book This video is a visual companion to the book, where each piece of evidence is explored in greater depth, with full documentation, references, and detailed analysis. 🔍 What you'll discover in this video: The forensic details of the image and wounds Scientific tests and their conclusions Competing explanations: medieval artifact or authentic relic What remains unexplained 🎧 Purpose of this video Not to tell you what to believe—but to present the evidence clearly, so you can decide.”

A linen cloth bearing an impossible image: three-dimensional, not painted, not burned, not printed. An enigma that spans two thousand years and still today challenges physicists, doctors, historians and criminologists. In this complete documentary we analyze all the scientific evidence, forensic data, 3D reconstructions and the most recent discoveries, including 2026 updates that have reignited the global debate: The Cicero Moraes theory: the Shroud as a "statue"? The responses of STURP scientists. The critiques of historian Nicolas Sarzeaud. New botanical, geological and medical evidence. 3D analyses showing a real body in cadaveric rigidity. Microscopic evidence: images just 200 nanometers thin — impossible to paint. The Sudarium of Oviedo and its 120 points of coincidence with the face of the Shroud.”

Image thickness: 1/10th of a human hair. Blood painted first, image formed around it. $1 million if you can replicate it — nobody has."  FORENSIC BLOOD EVIDENCE NO MEDIEVAL FORGER

COULD FAKE Dr. John Sottosanti, oral surgeon with 40+ years of experience, reveals blood evidence on the Shroud of Turin that's stumped scientists for decades. Medieval artists would have needed to predict ultraviolet light technology 600 years before it existed, understand crucifixion-induced nerve damage, and paint blood halos invisible to the naked eye. The evidence includes: serum halos visible only under UV light (discovered in the 1900s), bifurcated blood flows matching arm position changes during crucifixion breathing, missing thumbs from median nerve damage, anatomically perfect blood patterns from 400+ scourge wounds, and an image just 1/10th the thickness of a human hair that forms AROUND the blood — not over it. British filmmaker David Rolfe has offered $1 million to anyone who can replicate the Shroud using medieval materials and techniques. What Was Jesus' Crucifixion Like? – MATURE CHRISTIAN – April 9, 2026 – Video (16:33) – Description: “What was Jesus' crucifixion like? Much of what we think we know about the crucifixion of Jesus on Golgotha is inaccurate. Most people believe Jesus died from asphyxia on the cross. But the real cause of death is far more shocking — and far more misunderstood. We break down what actually happened to Jesus' body during his suffering and crucifixion, step by step. From the Garden of Gethsemane to the final moments on the cross, this is a medical reconstruction of Jesus' final hours. What did He endure physically and emotionally? How did this method of torture lead to His death so quickly? And we'll reveal sobering details from the Shroud of Turin that shed new light on His suffering."

The Nails of the Crucifixion — What the Evidence Actually Shows – The Relic Smith – April 9, 2026 – Video (41:14) – Description: "The nails of the crucifixion are among the most venerated relics in Christian history, over thirty have been claimed across the treasuries of Europe. But only three to four were actually used. In this video we examine what the physical evidence actually tells us about the instrument at the center of the most important death in human history. We work through the archaeology — the 1968 discovery of Yehohanan, with a Roman nail still embedded in his heel bone. We examine what the nail actually looked like, why the center-palm artistic tradition fails anatomically, and what two competing forensic pathologists, Pierre Barbet and Frederick Zugibe: conclude about the viable hand placement pathways. We look at the Shroud of Turin as direct forensic evidence specific to Christ's crucifixion and what its foot impression tells us about nail placement. We examine the prophecy of unbroken bones and how the different placement theories satisfy or fail it. And we walk through what crucifixion actually did to the human body Sources drawn on include Pierre Barbet's A Doctor at Calvary, Frederick Zugibe's The Crucifixion of Jesus: A Forensic Inquiry, STURP forensic researchers Robert Bucklin and John Jackson, the EDICES international medical research team, the Israel Exploration Journal, Biblical Archaeology Review, and the Dead Sea Scrolls. The Relic Smith examines religious relics through theology, archaeology, history, and scripture."

The Hidden Link Between the Shroud of Turin and the Sudarium of Oviedo - Proof of the Crucifixion? – Biblical Frontiers – March 12, 2026 -Video (9:01) – Description: “Did the Shroud of Turin and the Sudarium of Oviedo cover the same man after the crucifixion? Modern forensic science and mathematics have revealed shocking connections. In this documentary video, we explore the incredible historical journey and medical enigmas behind two of the world's most investigated relics. Discover how scientific analyses prove that both cloths contain human blood of the rare AB blood type . Furthermore, studies mapping 16 anatomical reference points across the forehead and the back of the head have found a correlation of over 83% between the bloodstains on both cloths—a level considered strong evidence even in a court of law . From the distinctive "inverted B" bloodstain , identical puncture wounds from sharp objects on the nape of the neck , to the presence of identical Middle Eastern pollen like Helichrysum and Gundelia tournefortii , all the data points to one astonishing conclusion: the face cloth venerated in Spain and the burial linen in Italy wrapped the exact same head . The Shroud Disappeared for 1,300 Years. Here's Where It Was. – JP2 Catholic Radio – March 5, 2026 – Video (31:46) – Description: “The Shroud of Turin appears in France in 1350. The last confirmed record before that? Jerusalem, 33 A.D. That's 1,300 years of silence. Was it hidden? Smuggled? Folded and disguised as something else entirely? Or is what we have today a medieval forgery — and the real cloth is simply gone? In Episode 7, Dr. John Sottosanti traces the evidence: the Image of Edessa, a king with leprosy who wrote a letter to Jesus, a cloth marched around city walls to repel a Persian army, a negotiated exchange for 200 prisoners and 12,000 pieces of silver, the sacking of Constantinople, and two men — separated by 40 years — who share an almost identical name. This is not carbon dating. This is not image formation. This is a cold case — 1,300 years old. Whether you're a believer, a skeptic, or just curious — the missing years are the most compelling part of the Shroud's story. ↗ New to the series? What Dating & Biological Evidence? | The Shroud of Turin Episode 3 – BibleInteract – March 11, 2026 – Video (52:14) – Description: “One of the most mysterious and debated artifacts in history takes center stage in this special four-part investigative series on the Shroud of Turin, featuring historian and Shroud researcher Hugh Farey. Approaching the subject with the careful, evidence-driven method that defines Bible Interact, we move beyond sensational claims and dismissive skepticism to examine what the data, history, and science actually say. Each episode tackles a major category of evidence, helping listeners understand why the Shroud continues to fascinate scholars, scientists, and the public alike. 🎧 Episode 1 — Big Questions: Why Not a Forgery? If the Shroud is not authentic, how could it have been made? We examine the artistic, technological, and historical obstacles facing any medieval forgery theory and explore why the image remains difficult to reproduce even today. 📖 Episode 2 — What Scientific Evidence? From image formation hypotheses to chemical and physical analyses, we survey the major scientific studies performed on the Shroud and what conclusions researchers cautiously draw from the data. 🔬 Episode 3 — What Dating & Biological Evidence? Carbon dating results, textile structure, blood chemistry, wound patterns, and medical observations are evaluated together to assess whether the Shroud could plausibly originate in the first century. 🌐 Episode 4 — What Historical & Environmental Clues? We trace the documented history of the cloth, possible earlier references, and environmental factors such as fire damage, storage conditions, and pollen evidence that may illuminate its journey across centuries. 🗣️ Why This Series Matters The Shroud of Turin sits at the intersection of archaeology, history, science, and faith. Whether one views it as a sacred relic, an unresolved mystery, or an ingenious artifact of the past, understanding the evidence is essential. As always, Biblical Archaeology from the Ground Down seeks to place artifacts and claims within their proper historical and archaeological context—carefully, respectfully, and rigorously. 🗨️ About Our Guest — Hugh Farey Hugh Farey is a respected historian and long-time Shroud researcher known for his balanced, methodical approach. He has published extensively on the subject and contributes to ongoing scholarly discussions surrounding the Shroud’s history, science, and interpretation.”

The Shroud Disappeared for 1,300 Years. Here's Where It Was. – JP2 Catholic Radio. – JP2 Catholic Radio – March 5, 2026 – Video (31:46) – Description: “The Shroud of Turin appears in France in 1350. The last confirmed record before that? Jerusalem, 33 A.D. That's 1,300 years of silence. Was it hidden? Smuggled? Folded and disguised as something else entirely? Or is what we have today a medieval forgery — and the real cloth is simply gone? In Episode 7, Dr. John Sottosanti traces the evidence: the Image of Edessa, a king with leprosy who wrote a letter to Jesus, a cloth marched around city walls to repel a Persian army, a negotiated exchange for 200 prisoners and 12,000 pieces of silver, the sacking of Constantinople, and two men — separated by 40 years — who share an almost identical name. This is not carbon dating. This is not image formation. This is a cold case — 1,300 years old. Whether you're a believer, a skeptic, or just curious — the missing years are the most compelling part of the Shroud's story. ✨ New to the series? In this Ratio Christi interview, Russ Breault (Shroud Encounter) walks through the strongest scientific and historical data: the image, the blood, the 3D information, and the biggest objections—especially the 1988 carbon dating controversy. In this interview we cover:

- Why the Shroud image isn't like paint: superficial fibers, no brushstroke directionality
- Why the photographic negative and distance/3D encoding are so unusual
- Blood chemistry claims: multiple blood components + crucifixion-consistent flow patterns

- The best skeptical case: carbon dating (1260–1390)—and why sample location/protocol disputes matter
- Historical trail arguments (Edessa/Constantinople) + iconography influence claims
- Q&A: re-dating, WAXS “aging comparison,” DNA limits, and best objections
- 📌 Mr. Breault’s resources mentioned: shroudencounter.com, plus research hub shroud.com.
- 💬 Comment: What’s your strongest objection—carbon dating, image formation, or history? “

Lleva más de cuatro décadas investigando los objetos relacionados con Jesús de Nazaret y está considerado uno de los mayores especialistas en el mundo hispanohablante en la Síndone. Desde el CES ha participado y dirigido investigaciones multidisciplinarias sobre el Santo Sudario de Oviedo, un lienzo que, según diversos estudios forenses, presenta coincidencias anatómicas y biológicas con la Sábana Santa, lo que apuntaría a que ambos envolvieron el mismo cuerpo tras la crucifixión. En este episodio del podcast, Rodríguez Almenar expone con rigor y profundidad las evidencias históricas, médicas y científicas que rodean la muerte de Cristo y el enigma de la Síndone, abordando cuestiones como la formación de la imagen, los estudios forenses sobre las heridas, la cronología de las reliquias y las hipótesis sobre lo ocurrido en el sepulcro. Una conversación que conecta historia, ciencia y fe, y que invita al espectador a reflexionar sobre una de las reliquias más estudiadas y debatidas de todos los tiempos: ¿podría la Sábana Santa constituir una prueba material de la existencia y la resurrección de Jesucristo?”

I Questioned the Bible... But the Shroud Changed Everything – The Skeptical Engineer – February 12, 2026 – Video (6:30) – Description: “Many people are leaving Christianity because of how they read the Bible. I almost did too. In this episode, I explain why I’ve deconstructed certain views of Scripture—while becoming more convinced that God is real. As an engineer, what pulled me back wasn’t blind faith. It was physical evidence, especially the Shroud of Turin. The Shroud presents a scientific anomaly consistent with Roman crucifixion and raises serious questions about the resurrection of Jesus. But here’s the paradox: The Bible reflects human culture, bias, and historical context that makes God appear to be tyrannical. Yet the God revealed in Jesus looks radically different—self-giving, suffering, and relational. Is it possible to question the Bible without abandoning God? Can faith survive uncertainty? Why would God allow ambiguity instead of overwhelming proof? We explore: • Deconstruction and faith • The Shroud of Turin evidence • Science and the resurrection • Why God allows doubt • Relationship vs religious control If you’re skeptical, questioning, or reconstructing your faith, this conversation is for you. Does the Shroud of Turin Reveal How the Resurrection Actually Happened? – Shroud Educational Endeavors Corp. – February 11, 2026 – Video (58:20) – Description: “What can the Shroud of Turin tell us about the Resurrection of Jesus Christ? In this episode of The Backstory on the Shroud of Turin, theologian and Shroud scholar Andrew Dalton explains why the linen cloth may be the most compelling historical witness to Christianity’s central claim. Dalton shares how the Shroud became his vocation within a vocation. He connects Gospel texts, Jewish burial customs, and forensic evidence found on the cloth. Special focus is given to John’s Gospel and the moment the Beloved Disciple “saw and believed.” This discussion explores binding cloths, burial spices, and why the linens appeared collapsed in the tomb. Dalton explains why the Shroud points beyond resuscitation to true Resurrection. Faith is not blind belief. It is trust grounded in evidence. The Shroud of Turin stands at the crossroads of Scripture, history, and science. It invites believers and skeptics alike to reconsider the Resurrection of Jesus Christ. This episode also connects directly to The Only Witness, which explores the Shroud’s journey through history.”

The Shroud of Turin & What It Means for Us Today \(w/ Fr. Andrew Dalton\) – PUHCF – February 10, 2026 – Video (25:05) – Description: “What if one of the most studied objects in Christian history could still surprise you? In this episode, David DiNapoli sits down with Fr. Andrew Dalton, a priest and professor living and teaching in Rome, whose work has brought him deep into the study of the Shroud of Turin. Fr. Dalton doesn't approach the Shroud as a curiosity or a controversy, but as something far more personal: an image that draws us into the heart of the Gospel itself. From Scripture and theology to the Eucharist and the Paschal Mystery, he reflects on why the Shroud has been called "the Fifth Gospel"—not as an extra revelation, but as a powerful visual witness to Christ's suffering, death, and resurrection. This conversation isn't about winning arguments or proving theories. It's about seeing Christ more clearly, loving Him more deeply, and understanding how faith, reason, and beauty converge in the life of the Church. Learn more about the Shroud of Turin & Fr. Did the Shroud of Turin Reveal How the Resurrection Changed One Man's Life? – Shroud Education Endeavors Corporation – February 9, 2026 – Video (38:55) – Description: “In this moving episode of The Backstory on the Shroud of Turin, Guy Powell interviews John Sottosanti, a former agnostic and dental surgeon whose life changed through the Shroud of Turin. John describes his first encounter with the Shroud, where prolonged study of the blood and wounds sparked an emotional realization of Jesus Christ's sacrifice. That moment began a lifelong journey of faith rooted in both science and spiritual reflection. Drawing on decades of dental expertise, John explains his anatomical observations of the Shroud image. He discusses linen striations, optical illusions, and why some claimed features require careful scientific restraint. His analysis highlights how the Shroud resists medieval forgery while remaining consistent with human anatomy. This conversation connects the Shroud of Turin to the Resurrection through lived experience rather than speculation. It also reflects themes explored in The Only Witness, Guy Powell's historical novel on the Shroud's journey through time. Faith, science, and personal transformation intersect in this deeply reflective discussion.”

Often described as the most studied relic in the world, the Shroud continues to challenge historians, scientists, theologians, and skeptics alike. In this series, we approach the Shroud from the ground up—historically, archaeologically, and scientifically—asking careful questions and examining the evidence without sensationalism.  Series Breakdown Part 1 – What Is It? What exactly is the Shroud of Turin? We explore its physical characteristics, the image it bears, and why it has drawn such intense scrutiny for over a century. Part 2 – Where Has It Been? Tracing the historical trail of the Shroud, we follow its documented (and debated) journey through history, from the medieval period to its present home in Turin Cathedral. Part 3 – How Old Is It? Carbon dating, textile analysis, historical records—what do they really tell us about the age of the Shroud? We unpack the data and the controversies surrounding it. Part 4 – How Was the Image Formed? No paint, no pigment, no known artistic technique. We examine leading hypotheses for how the image was created and why it remains unexplained. Part 5 – Image on Byzantine Coins LINK

• Byzantine Coin Shroud One of the most intriguing lines of evidence: the striking correspondence between the Shroud image and early Byzantine coinage. Could the Shroud have influenced Christian iconography centuries earlier than often assumed? This Made Protestants Believe in the Shroud of Turin \(with Fr. Andrew Dalton\) – Tracing the Cross – January 28, 2026 – MUST WATCH – Video (56:59) – Description: “In this video, we visit The Shroud of Turin: An Immersive Experience and sit down with Father Andrew Dalton, who walks us through the history, science, and theology surrounding the famous burial cloth believed by many to be Jesus’ burial shroud. As Protestants, we went into this experience with questions, curiosity, and a desire to understand the evidence for ourselves. From carbon dating controversies to forensic details, image formation, and centuries of debate, we explore what can actually be known and what still remains unexplained. Whether you’re skeptical, convinced, or somewhere in between, we hope this conversation helps you think more deeply about faith, evidence, and the story at the center of Christianity. Thanks for watching as we trace the cross. [The HIDDEN history of the SHROUD of Turin \(Shroud of Christ\) \[EN\] \[PART 1&2\]](#) – Holy Clic – Video (19:00) – Description: “The Shroud of Turin (or Holy Shroud) has fascinated people for centuries. Officially discovered in the 14th century in Lirey, France, it may actually date back to the year 33 in Jerusalem... But what does history truly reveal? And what do several historical documents, such as Theodore Angelus's letter of 1205 or the Chronicle of Morea, tell us? You'll find out in this fascinating video! This video is divided into two parts: 1. Part 1: From 1456 to the present day. Several events are discussed, including the fire in Chambéry in 1532, which nearly destroyed the Shroud. 2. Part 2: From 33 to 1456. An important historical document, recently discovered, helps to shed light on the great mystery of the Shroud's appearance in Lirey. This video discusses, in particular, the Achaean clan with the Chronicle of Morea, but also Athens with the letter of Theodore Angelus, Constantinople with the Chronicle of Skylitzes, Edessa..."
